15 subject cards; 15

action cards; 1 spinner;

16 point tokens; Rules

Shuffle the subject cards and place the deck face down in the centre of the table. Do the same for the action cards. Keep the spinner and the point tokens in reach.

How to play

Play with 3 to 4 players or teams. In turn, each player must mime somebody performing an action, which the other players must guess. The youngest player starts by drawing a subject card and spinning the spinner; the colour it lands on determines which subject they have to mime. If, for example, the spinner lands on pink, they must mime the word corresponding to the colour pink on the card. If the spinner lands on the smiley face they may choose any of the six subjects. Repeat the procedure by drawing an action card and spinning the spinner again, which will determine the action to mime (for example: THE LION PAINTS). At this point, the player proceeds with their mime (the time limit can be set at one or two minutes, at the players' discretion). The turn ends either when the player's time is up or when another player guesses both the subject and the action they are performing. If the guess is successful, both the person miming and the person who guessed correctly win a token. If no one guesses correctly, no tokens are won. The game continues anti-clockwise. The winner is the first player to win 5 tokens. In the event of a tie, one or more tie-breaker rounds can be played.

Miming Rules

Only gestures and body movements can be used when miming. You may not use your voice, or even lip movement.
